

Leaders of three Mississippi universities visit Raymond Campus

Representatives from three Mississippi universities paid visits to the Raymond Campus Dec. 3-5 to meet with students, faculty and administrators. Dr. William LaForge, president of Delta State University, talked to Honors Forum and Phi Theta Kappa students about opportunities, including scholarships, at Delta State. He also met with a group of Hinds employees who are part of a Delta State graduate program. On Dec. 4, a team from the University of Mississippi met with faculty to discuss 2 plus 2 partnership opportunities and also met with Hinds vice presidents and Hinds President Dr. Clyde Muse. On Dec. 5, Mississippi State University faculty and administrators visited the aviation programs at John Bell Williams Airport to explore continued partnerships. «

Dr. Robert Moorhead, left, director of Geosystems Research and Northern Gulf Institutes at Mississippi State University, and Dr. Joel Paz, associate professor in the Agricultural and Biological Engineering department at Mississippi State, were among a team of MSU officials who learned about Hinds' Unmanned Aerial Systems program in a recent visit to the Raymond Campus.

Delta State University President Dr. William LaForge met with Honors students on the Raymond Campus as part of a recruiting visit.

University of Mississippi administrators met with Hinds President Dr. Clyde Muse and Hinds vice presidents to discuss opportunities for partnerships.

